2010 Trade Policy Agenda and 2009 Annual Report

MARCH 1, 2010

The President's Trade Policy Agenda for 2010 advances a robust American role in the global trading system by further outlining what trade can mean for American exports, jobs, and economic growth - and also for global economic recovery and well-being. It discusses policies that implement American commitment to the rules-based trading system and the enforcement of American rights within that system. It outlines the steps that the United States will take to further stimulate jobs and growth here at home and around the world, and how the United States is building on existing trade agreements and pending pacts. It also addresses how U.S. trade policy partners the United States with the developing countries of the world.

The report is available for download by individual chapter in PDF format.
